

Professionally Moderated Prostate Cancer Support Group

About the Group

First and third Wednesdays of each month, 7:00 p.m. - 8:30 p.m. ET

This support group is designed to offer a welcoming and structured environment where individuals impacted by prostate cancer can find support, share experiences, and gain knowledge. Led by an expert in oncology social work, discussions will be guided with sensitivity and professionalism to ensure all members feel heard and supported.

What to Expect

- Professionally moderated discussions
- Evidence-based information and clinical guidance
- A safe space to share experiences and navigate complex medical information
- Reliable resources for emotional and physical concerns

Who Can Join

This group is open to anyone affected by prostate cancer, including those diagnosed, caregivers, and loved ones. Whether you are seeking advice, emotional support, or simply a community that understands your journey, this group provides a valuable space to connect.

Meet the Moderator: Alison Mayer Sachs

Alison Mayer Sachs is a distinguished leader in the field of oncology social work with decades of experience supporting cancer patients and their families. She is nationally recognized for her expertise in developing and implementing comprehensive cancer support programs that address the emotional, psychological, and practical challenges faced by those impacted by cancer. Her work has been instrumental in shaping patient-centered care models, and she has dedicated her career to fostering supportive environments that help individuals navigate their cancer journey with confidence and dignity.

As a member of ZERO's Medical Advisory Board, Ali brings a wealth of knowledge and compassion to her role as a moderator, ensuring that every participant in this support group feels heard, validated, and empowered. Her extensive background in counseling, patient advocacy, and program development makes her an invaluable resource for those seeking both professional guidance and community support.
